Many a sharply-drawn character in Lewis' books was picked out by millions of readers as a true-to-life person of their own experience

And Gopher Prairie and Zenith, the village of the small city in "Main Street" and "Babbitt." were real enough to be on a map.

"ARROWSMITH." "Elmer Gantry," "Dodsworth," "It Can't Happen Here," "Kingsblood Royal," "Cass Timberlane," "The Man Who Knew Coolidge." "Ann Vickers" and "Prodigal Parents" were among other better known books.

Critics called Lewis one of the great social historians of his generation.

His latest novel, "The God Seeker," was issued in 1949.

Lewis was the son and grandson of country doctors at Sauk Center, where he was born Feb. 1885. The family was of Welsh origin.

Lewis married Grace Hegger in 1914. Their only son, Wells, was killed in World War II. Mrs. Lewis obtained a divorce in 1928, and the next month Lewis married Dorothy Thompson.

She obtained a divorce in 1942

A son from the second marriage, Michael, is a student of dramatics.

Whether the writer will be buried here was not learned.
